Exchange Programs

Exchange programs allow students to pay in-state tuition and fees for fifteen credits of courses taken at universities abroad.

Perth, Australia •
University of Western Australia
One of top 100 universities in the world, the University of Western Australia offers courses in nearly every discipline, from general education to more specialized coursework in agricultural science, business, business law, conservation biology, economics, environmental science, and management. Situated in the cosmopolitan and green city of Perth, UWA offers an abundance of outdoor activities in one of the safest large cities in the world. A minimum 3.0 GPA is required.

Prague, Czech Republic •
Czech University of Life Sciences
The magical Czech capital of Prague is filled with castles, cathedrals and towers, but is also a lively, modern city, full of energy. Its central location in Europe also makes it ideal for travel. Classes at “Czech Ag” are taught in English in agricultural economics and management, natural resources and environment, forestry, water and landscape management, and environmental engineering.

Toulouse, France •
École Supérieure d'Agriculture, Purpan
At the heart of one of the most important agricultural regions in Europe, Purpan balances an authentic French experience with accessibility to many of the continent's major urban and cultural centers. Only seniors in Animal Science and Industry interested in taking upper-level courses should apply. Some courses are taught in English, but knowledge of French is recommended. Consider the summer program if you are interested in lower-level coursework or an internship!

Edmond, England, United Kingdom •
Harper Adams University
Harper Adams’ attractive rural location in the heart of England provides the best of town and country. With a reputation for excellence and innovation, the Shropshire campus offers state-of-the-art facilities for study in areas like animal studies, business and management, countryside environment and wildlife, crop science, food studies, rural estate management, and veterinary studies.

Dublin, Ireland •
University College Dublin
The UCD exchange program features outstanding learning and research opportunities at one of the top-ranked institutions in the world. UCD has established a long and distinguished tradition of service to scholarship and to the community. Students may take courses, or "modules," in such fields as agricultural science, animal science, dairy business, food science, human nutrition, forestry, and horticulture, landscape, and sportsturf management.

Sydney, Australia •
University of Sydney
Situated in one of Australia's most dynamic cities, the world-renowned University of Sydney offers the opportunity to study, live, and learn at the cutting edge of Australian life and culture. The institution regularly stands among the Top 100 universities in the world, with its strong coursework in multiple disciplines, from agriculture to general education. A minimum 3.0 GPA is required.

.faculty-led programs

Faculty-Led Programs

Each year, departments within the College of Agriculture sponsor group study tours to countries around the globe. Agriculture students also participate in other trips sponsored by other colleges and universities. To learn about current programs and apply, visit https://ksu.studioabroad.com/goto/FacultyLed. Past programs included:

Food Industry and Culinary Tour of Barcelona
This tour was an eleven-day intensive Food Science study tour that introduced students to the production of local food products and traditions of the region in and around Barcelona, Spain, with particular emphasis on quality and safety.

Food and Agriculture Study Tour of France
This fifteen-day study tour introduced students to the food and agricultural industries in France, including food processing, safety and management, livestock production and management practices, and viticulture.

Beef and Sheep Industry Tour of Argentina
A thirteen-day intensive Animal Science study tour that introduced students to the beef and sheep industry in Argentina. Also included were livestock and crop production and management practices, as well as other history and cultural educational opportunities.

Food Industry Tour of Italy
This tour was a twelve-day intensive Food Science study tour that introduced students to the production of local food products and traditions of Tuscany with particular emphasis on quality and safety.

Equine Study Tour of Ireland and the UK
This course was an eighteen-day intensive Animal Science study tour that introduced students to the equine industry in Ireland, Scotland, and England, including production and management practices, major breeds and uses, and educational opportunities in the UK.

Summer Programs

Prague, Czech Republic •
Czech University of Life Sciences
This four-week summer program features classes in agricultural economics, rural sociology, and Czech language and culture. This program includes many excursions to Czech farms, including a five-day study tour and a weekend stay with a family. No prior knowledge of Czech is necessary, as all courses are taught in English.

Toulouse, France •
École Supérieure d'Agriculture, Purpan
In the on-campus program in June, students take classes in English on topics including European animal production and crop production and food processing. Students also take intensive French courses. In July, students may participate in a four-week internship program in animal production, agro-tourism, plant production, or vineyards/wineries. The program includes many cultural excursions and outings to agricultural production sites. No prior knowledge of French is necessary.

Various Locations

International Service Teams
Join an International Service Team (BST) with the K-State School of Leadership Studies. You can participate in a spring semester course coupled with a service project involving issues like health, education, the environment, and youth development during an eight to ten week stay abroad during the summer. Contact the School of Leadership Studies for more information.
