BESITOS students work with other education undergraduates to present their ESL Methods course project by sharing their observations of ESL students and how they would modify instruction according to the Prism Model by V. Collier.