Martin Luther King, speaking to a crowd of 7,200, attacked the war in Vietnam and made a pitch for a strong state fair housing bill. King was picketed on his arrival by faculty and student protestors.