MINUTES
Faculty Senate Academic Affairs
May 6, 2008, 3:30 p.m.
K-State Student Union, Room 203

Present: Carroll, Charney, Chengappa, Dodd, Huschka, Holcombe, King, LeHew, Montelone
Absent: Devore, Martin, Ramaswamy, Staggenborg
Visitors: Steve Smethers, Monty Nielsen, Karen Myers-Bowman

1. Doris Carroll, Chair, called the meeting to order at 3:35 p.m.

2. A motion was made and seconded to approve the April 17, 2008 minutes. Motion carried.

3. General Education Task Force Update
Karen Myers-Bowman came to give an update on the progress of the General Education Task force. The forums that they held with faculty were very helpful. They have now come down to eight areas that general education should fulfill, which they have been calling “the K-State 8”. A couple areas they’ve worked are technology and sustainability in the courses. Also, they requested help from department heads and deans in tagging certain courses that would fit these eight areas. After compiling this information, they will be bringing forward a brief proposal as to what general education at K-State should look like, how it should be run, and also how it should be assessed. The proposal should ready to submit by June 1, 2008. The Academic Affairs committee will review it at the start of their fall meetings, with the first meeting being September 2, 2008. Chengappa asked if the task force is aware of any concerns that may need addressed. Karen responded that the overwhelming response has been positive; however, there are still some concerns that will need worked through as the new version of general education is implemented. Changes will need to be made in order to make this work for all curricula. Karen commended and thanked her task force publicly for all of their hard work. Nielsen asked about the impact of this on transcripts, etc. She responded that while they are not going to let the technology drive how business is done, they do still have to consider how the current technology will work with the process. Karen thanked the committee for their time and input and will look forward to seeing them at the September 2 meeting.

4. Course and Curriculum Changes
   A. Undergraduate Education
      1. A motion was made by Holcombe and seconded by Chengappa to approve the following course additions as approved by the College of Agriculture on March 13, 2008:

         COURSE CHANGES
         Department of Communications
         Add:
         AGCOM 435 Documentary Production
         AGCOM 590 New Media Technology

         Carroll reported to the committee that she received an email today from Steve Smethers, in the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications, indicating concern over these courses by his department. Steve Smethers was a visitor to the meeting and briefly gave a history of why their department has concerns over these courses and what they are doing in order to resolve the issues involving the missions of these two departments. Smethers requested that these courses be held off the agenda until JMC and Agriculture Communications can resolve their issues. There was considerable discussion over the reoccurring concerns from JMC this year to other colleges’ proposals. After a lengthy discussion, Chengappa commented that it appears the College of Agriculture had followed the process in an honorable way and should not be penalized by holding these courses back. Motion carried. (There were two members who abstained from the vote)

      2. A motion was made by Chengappa and seconded by King to approve the following course and curriculum changes as approved by the College of Arts and Sciences on April 17, 2008:

RATIONALE: In a separate action currently before faculty senate, MC 195 Information Gathering is being dropped from our curriculum, and another class, MC 316, is being modified in title and description. The proposed action on this form represents the faculty’s desire to substitute MC 195 with MC 316 as a core requirement for Print and Broadcast Journalism majors.

An earlier action in 2006, which creates undergraduate versions of some classes that were once only listed at the 700 level, is forcing a change in the bottom “choose from” option. MC 710 History of Journalism and MC 720 Ethics in Mass Communication were formerly part of that option, and now, those classes are being replaced with MC 564 and MC 573.

The addition of Vocal Pedagogy will strengthen our curriculum, making it more consistent with similar curricula at other colleges and universities.

Motion carried.

B. General Education –
   1. A motion was made by Dodd and seconded by LeHew to approve the following course changes as approved by the UGE Council on April 24, 2008:
      Course description changes to:
      GRMN 221
      GRMN 223

      Drop from UGE status:
      HIST 529 Civil War and Reconstruction

      Motion carried.

5. Graduation list changes
   A. A motion was made by LeHew and seconded by Chengappa to approve the following addition to the Fall 2007 graduation list: Daniel J. Robbins, Bachelor of Science in Secondary, College of Education

      Motion carried.

6. Committee Reports
   A. University Library Committee – Mohan Ramaswamy
      No report
   B. Committee on Academic Policy and Procedures (CAPP) – Doris Carroll
      Pat Bosco was a guest at their last meeting and gave them an update on enrollment statistics and admission processes.

      Nielsen asked for feedback from Academic Affairs committee members on how the enrollment process appears to be going with iSIS. There were a few concerns noted on the part of faculty and students, but overall the process seems to be proceeding without any major issues. Please send your concerns via email to David Delker (ddelker@ksu.edu).
   C. General Education Task Force – Melody LeHew
      No further report.
   D. Student Senate – Andrew Huschka
      Turn over just took place with new senators beginning their terms. The smoking ban is on their agenda to bring back to the Manhattan Commission this year. Also, the Big 12 student conference will be held here in Manhattan for the first time from October 16-19, 2009.

7. Old Business
   A. Course and Curriculum Policy Proposal update
      Ms. Becker reported that Kelli Cox, Doris Carroll, and she met with Registrar Office personnel and reviewed the new course and curriculum process, specifically the data sheets. Plans are under way to meet with key personnel in each college to take the process step by step and to answer any questions. This will be done starting in a few weeks after the end of this semester. The changes will be implemented in fall 2008.
   C. Plagiarism Definition - Attachment 1
      Dodd gave a brief history of how the task force produced this definition. They reviewed around 10 other universities policies and then outlined a list of what items of importance should be included in K-State’s definition. Chengappa questioned research methodology and the use of the word “original” when referring to concept under #2, the second bullet. Charney had deep concern about the second set of bullets under #2. He felt that unless this is an exhaustive list, there could be repercussions for putting this type of list in the handbook. He also commented that it should be the instructor’s responsibility to share with students what types of things are encompassed by plagiarism. LeHew feels that to have this as part of the Handbook language benefits students. Dodd also highlighted that having this language available in the University Handbook empowers GTAs who teach courses. Committee members were encouraged to review this document and send their comments to Doris and copy them to Elizabeth. It will be reviewed again next meeting and also over the summer. It was the decision of the committee that this should come before senate in the fall and not at the June meeting.

8. New Business
   A. Election of 2008-2009 Academic Affairs Chair
      There were three nominations via electronic mail from our last meeting: Carroll, LeHew, and Montelone. LeHew and Montelone were unable to accept their nominations. Carroll accepted. The floor was opened for further nominations. No other nominations were made. Dodd moved to close nominations. Motion carried. Carroll was unanimously voted as chair of Academic Affairs for the 2008-2009 year.

9. For the good of the University
   Carroll distributed a handout to committee members of all the activities Academic Affairs has worked on this year and thanked them for their dedicated participation on the committee.

10. The meeting adjourned at 5:08 p.m.
Appendix F, Section A. Cheating: Plagiarism.

1. Definition of Plagiarism.

Plagiarism is taking credit for someone else’s ideas, work, or words. In a university setting, it means turning in academic, scholarly, or literary work in which you either claim or imply the material to be your own, when that is not the case. Webster’s New Collegiate Dictionary, eleventh edition, defines plagiarism simply: “to steal and pass off the ideas or words of another as one’s own without crediting the source” (2003).

2. Avoidance of Plagiarism.

In practical terms, plagiarism could include:

- Buying a term paper, or copying another person’s paper, even if she or he gives you permission.
- Cutting and pasting information from the Internet into your own paper without properly identifying it as a quotation and properly attributing the source.
- Using someone else’s original concept and presenting it as if it is your own original creativity, without acknowledging the source of the idea.

While some acts of plagiarism are obvious attempts to deceive, like buying a term paper, others result from sloppy scholarship or failure to follow proper format for crediting sources. For example:

- If you copy directly from another source and acknowledge it in your bibliography or list of works cited, yet fail to put it in quotation marks, this is plagiarism. The reason is because, although you have indicated that the idea is someone else’s, the lack of quotation marks implies that the words are your own.

- Paraphrasing is summarizing a source so that you have re-written the material in your own words but maintained the original author’s ideas. When you paraphrase, you do not need to put the words in quotation marks, but you do need to properly attribute the original source. Paraphrasing does not mean simply changing one or two words, or leaving out a sentence, while the rest remains the same. Even if you identify the original author, but have used faulty paraphrasing that retains too much of the original, the result is inadvertent plagiarism.

- If you use another researcher’s specific methodology, you should acknowledge doing so. While some research protocols are widespread and general enough to need no citation, if the protocol, analysis, or technique can be attributed to specific publication it should be cited.

Different departments and disciplines may have specific guidelines and standards for how to properly acknowledge and document sources. For example, some departments will require students to use a certain citation format: MLA or APA. If instructors or departments have specific requirements concerning citation or paraphrasing, it is their responsibility to make those requirements clear to the students. If students have any question about how to properly attribute work, it is their responsibility to ask the instructor. Departments that encourage collaborative learning and scholarship should make clear to students what constitutes fair academic collaboration, and what constitutes academic dishonesty.

4. Academic Community.

The ethical standards outlined above apply throughout the academic community. These guidelines apply to faculty and research assistants in their possible use of students’ and colleagues’ research and ideas, as well as to students’ use either of source materials and authorities or of other students’ ideas and work.
