CURRICULUM CHANGES:

Department of Aviation

DROP: Avionics Installation Certificate (CAVIC)

RATIONALE: This certificate has never been active. It was originally created to work in conjunction with an agreement with a community college.

IMPACT: No impact on any other department.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Fall 2013

DROP: Associate of Technology: Professional Pilot (PPIL)

RATIONAL: With the addition of a master's degree on our campus, we need to reduce the scope of our coursework. Recent FAA legislation will require our graduates to have a bachelor degree in aviation in order to obtain a Restricted Privileges Airline Transport Pilot certificate so an associate degree is no longer sufficient for entry level positions.

IMPACT: There may be a reduction in students requiring developmental English and Intermediate Algebra from the Arts, Sciences and Business Department.

DROP: Associate of Applied Science: Aviation Maintenance (AAVM)

RATIONALE: In transition to a new Aviation Maintenance Management bachelor's degree program and shifting away from associate's degree offerings, the Aviation Department faculty voted to delete the AAVM program and maintain the Airframe and PowerPlant Certificate and the Bachelor of Science in Aeronautical Technology, Aviation Maintenance Management option.

IMPACT: No impact on any other department.

EFFECTIVE DATE: Fall 2013

Add:

Bachelor of Science in Aeronautical Technology, Helicopter Pilot Option
