Kansas State University Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee
General Education Proposal – Fall 2022
Tracked Version

Context:

In June 2022 KBOR made changes to the general education requirements for all Regents universities. All Regents universities must adjust their general education curriculum by Fall 2024 to be in compliance with the policy. FSAAC has been discussing strategies to align K-State's General Education requirements with the new KBOR policy. Members of the FSAAC solicited input from their caucuses on a series of questions related to the design of the new general education curriculum. Members of FSAAC then reported relevant information back to the FSAAC. Co-Chairs, Drs. Andrew Bennett and Brandon Kliwer have taken the information and created the following draft proposal, in consultation with the rest of FSAAC.

Overview of Committee Decisions:

1. Retire the K-State 8: On October 4, 2022 the FSAAC indicated that compliance with the KBOR Gen Ed would override the K-State 8 program. The results from the caucus input were shared on October 18, and it was unanimously reported that we should retire K-State 8.
2. No university-wide requirements for a B.S. vs. B.A.: While individual colleges may wish to add requirements to distinguish a B.S. from a B.A., there is not consensus for a university-wide set of requirements.
3. All General Education courses in buckets 1-6 are at the 100- and 200-levels: KBOR designates general education-level courses as those numbered in the 100- and 200-levels. To maintain consistency across the system, making sure that our offerings are at the same level as those that students are transferring into K-State, we will use 100- and 200-level courses in our general education core. This does not apply to systemwide transfer courses which are acceptable no matter what level they transfer to K-State.
4. College of Agriculture Courses: Kansas State University's College of Agriculture is unique in the KBOR system. Therefore, the KBOR framework did not include agriculture in any of the disciplinary areas, but in consultation with the college dean's offices, we included classes that fit in the appropriate buckets.
5. Bucket 7: There is not consensus on how Bucket 7 should be handled. Proposals that have significant support include
 - a. Leave as free electives
 - b. Require 3 credits of Human Diversity in the U.S. along with 3 credits of free electives.
 - c. Require 3 credits of Human Diversity in the U.S. and 3 credits of Ethical Reasoning.
 - d. Should this requirement be limited to 100- and 200-level courses? Bucket 7 gives institutions "flexibility" to place a unique "fingerprint" on the general education.

Should we interpret this policy as allowing courses above the 200-level for bucket 7?

6. “Double Dipping”: The Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee voted to approve the ability for a student to count one course that fits into two disciplinary buckets for each of the buckets 4-7. Students still need to take a total of 34-35 credit hours total of coursework in the general education framework.

6.7. Performance Courses: The Faculty Senate Academic Affairs Committee voted to affirm that Kansas State University will accept performance courses in Bucket #6.

Next steps:

The Academic Affairs committee recommends the K-State University Core proposal to be placed on the agenda for the December Faculty Senate meeting for a first reading. Voting should take place at the next senate meeting. Amendments should be limited to those submitted in writing 15 days before the meeting so that they can be properly communicated and understood before voting.

Amendment D

~~Add the following class for Requirement #3.~~

- ~~● PHILO 110, Intro to Formal Logic~~

~~Justification:~~

~~I suggest that PHILO 110 (Introduction to Formal Logic) be added to bucket 3. Right now, PHILO 110 satisfies one of the quantitative reasoning requirements for BS degrees in the college of A&S. It's an excellent, challenging course. But if it no longer satisfies a quantitative reasoning requirement, then Philosophy will probably no longer be able to offer it. And that will be yet another huge blow to our department, and to the teaching of quantitative reasoning at K-State. One further thought in support of adding logic to bucket 3. KBOR has said they "anticipate" adopting a math pathways framework for higher education in Kansas. If we include PHILO 110 in bucket 3, then we can present bucket three as aligning with the three main categories in the higher ed math pathways framework KBOR considered (STEM → college algebra; social science → statistics; liberal arts → quantitative reasoning). I understand that math pathways hasn't been adopted yet; but the fact that KBOR is talking about adopting it makes me think that they will not balk at the inclusion of PHILO 110 in bucket 3.~~
