News Bulletin of the International Committee

Information, Dues, and Membership Form
MEMBERSHIP AND DUES

Membership is open to anyone interested in the history of the Second World War. Annual dues, payable at the beginning of January for the calendar year, are $10.00 for regular members, as well as for institutions receiving the semiannual newsletter, and $2.00 for students. Those wishing to join or to renew their membership are invited to fill out the lower part of the information and membership form (attached to this newsletter as an unnumbered page) and to return it, with the appropriate remittance, to the secretary.

NOTE ON THE MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY

Newsletter 19, issued last spring, included a thirty-five page directory of the membership of the ACHSWW. A revised version is included in this issue. It does not include a listing of the officers of the International Committee and the chairmen of the affiliated national committees, for they are listed in the News Bulletin of the International Committee, which is also attached.

The new directory reflects changes of address and correction of errors kindly brought to our attention. Because of its length, it will not be issued as part of the newsletter again next year, though it may be made available separately, and the records on which it is based will continue to be maintained.

COMMITTEE ELECTIONS

The three-year terms of eight of the directors and of the committee's two officers ended on 31 December 1978. Following the established practice of the committee, the directors, acting as a nominating committee, selected a slate of incumbents and new candidates. The officers and directors whose terms expire at the end of 1981, shown on the letterhead on the first page of this newsletter, were elected by mail ballot.

THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE NEWS BULLETIN

The March 1979 issue (No. 17) of the News Bulletin of the International Committee is appended to this newsletter following the Membership Directory. Please note in particular Part I (pp. 1-5), regarding plans for the meeting of the International Committee being held in Bucharest, Romania, in connection with the International Historical Congress in August, 1980.
THE 1978 ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the ACHSWW was held this past year, as in the past, in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Historical Association.

The ACHSWW Business Meeting was convened by the Secretary at 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, 28 December 1978, in the Walnut Room of the San Francisco Hilton. In his financial report, the Secretary stated that a year earlier the balance in the committee treasury had been $215.24; as of 23 December 1978 it was $23.65. Receipts during the year had totalled $1678.00. Of this, $45.00 had been received from publishers for mailing labels, the balance from members. Expenditures during the past year had totalled $1869.59: $262.00 had been required to pay our annual dues of 500 Swiss francs to the International Committee, as compared to $203.00 a year earlier; the balance, $1607.59, had gone for operating expenses, which would have been higher, had it not been for the support provided the Secretary and Newsletter Editor by Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

The AHA-ACHSWW joint session for the 1978 meeting was held at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, 28 Dec., in the Borgia Room of the St. Francis. It was entitled From Punishment to Reorientation—Aspects of Reform: The Reverse Course in United States Occupation Policy for Germany. Professor Earl F. Ziemke served both as chairman and commentator at the session, at which three papers were presented: From Prosecution to Clemency for War Criminals by John Mendelsohn, National Archives and Records Service; From Information Control to Media Freedom by Robert Wolfe, National Archives and Records Service; and German Public Views on Changing U. S. Occupation Policy by Richard L. Merritt, University of Illinois at Urbana.

THE 1979 ANNUAL MEETING

The next joint meeting of the AHA and the ACHSWW will be held in New York 28-30 December 1979. Precise details regarding the time and place of the Business Meeting and the joint session will be provided in the Fall 1979 newsletter. The AHA Program Committee has approved the following proposal for a joint session:

EFFECTS OF WORLD WAR II ON THE HOME FRONT: CHANGING ATTITUDES TOWARD WAR AND GOVERNMENT

Joint Session with the American Committee on the History of the Second World War

CHAIR: Richard Polenberg, Cornell University

American Propaganda in World War II and After Allan M. Winkler, Yale University
Toward an Isolationist Braintrust: Establishment of the Foundation for Foreign Affairs
Justus Doenecke, New College, University of South Florida

The Influence of the War on Public Opinion and Voting Coalitions
Richard Jensen, Newberry Library and University of Illinois at Chicago Circle

COMMENT: Susan Hartmann, University of Missouri at St. Louis

OTHER MEETINGS

BUDAPEST, 2-4 NOVEMBER 1978

Professor Robert Herzstein, University of South Carolina, represented the ACHSWW at the conference of the Hungarian Committee at the beginning of November 1978. (Although he was an invited participant, the American Council of Learned Societies was unfortunately unable to provide any support for his travel; part of his expenses were covered by a grant from the Provost's Special Fund, University of South Carolina, supplemented by a modest ACHSWW subsidy.)

"The conference on war propaganda in Southeastern Europe during World War II was an exciting one [Prof. Herzstein reports], at least from my viewpoint. Many of the papers dealt with Nazi 'Europe' propaganda and ideology, a subject on which I have just completed a manuscript. Our hosts were most thoughtful, providing individual guides/assistants (students, teachers and librarians, affiliated with the Party Institute, etc.) who spoke the language of the participants. Simultaneous translations of the papers were provided in five languages. The papers were provided to us in advance, which was helpful, and most Referenten summarized their papers, rather than reading the whole thing.

"The proceedings and deliberations took place in the festive Hall of the Academy of Sciences, the actual building in which the nineteenth-century Hungarian parliament met. Several of us were invited to the podium for various sessions to appear as honorary co-chairmen with Professor Ranki, who ran the proceedings with efficiency and good humor. We were invited to comment on the subjects or the papers; if we wished to do so, we gave our name to Ranki, who introduced the commentators in order. His prudent use of an alarm clock kept most of us within the time limit.

"We can look forward to the publication of the papers, including an excellent one by Miss Elisabeth Barker, next year. (The Proceedings for the preceding session appeared during this meeting.)

"I felt that the whole thing was well worth while, and that I established a good and lasting rapport with my Hungarian colleagues."

BONN, 15-16 NOVEMBER 1978

The Arbeitskreis für Wehrforschung, the Clausewitz-Gesellschaft, and the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Wehrtechnik jointly sponsored a conference in mid-November 1978 on the impact of modern technology on warfare, with particular reference to radio intelligence. The participants included Harold Deutsch and David Kahn of this committee; Jürgen Rohwer, Chairman of the Arbeitskreis and Director of the Library for Contemporary History in Stuttgart; Commander Patrick Beesly (author of Very Special Intelligence, 1976); Ronald Lewin (author of Ultra Goes to War, 1978); R. V. Jones, (author of Most Secret War: British Scientific Intelligence, 1939-1945, 1978); and other British, German, and Polish authorities. More complete information will be provided in the fall 1979 newsletter reporting on the publication of the proceedings of this very important conference, which are appearing in parallel English and German editions. (The fall bibliography will also give data on the titles mentioned above, as well as related works not covered in the brief bibliography in this issue of the newsletter.)

CRACOW, 22-24 OCTOBER 1979

At a Colloquium of the Polish Committee, Professor David Chalmers of the University of Florida, a specialist in American political, social and intellectual history, will present a paper, as a representative of the ACHSWW, on The Importance of the Emigration of European Scholars for American Learning, 1933-1945.

ANNAPOLIS, 25-26 OCTOBER 1979

The Fourth Naval History Symposium, late in October at the Naval Academy, includes fifteen sessions ranging from antiquity to the present. Three are on the Second World War: Session 2, Anglo-American Naval Policy During World War II; Session 4, The Magic War: Naval Intelligence in the War Against Japan (chaired by David Kahn, with Roberta Wohlstetter as commentator); and Session 11, The U. S. Marines in World War II. Because accommodations in the Annapolis area are somewhat limited (450 historians attended the very successful third symposium, in October 1977), it would not be advisable to defer making arrangements. The single registration fee of $20.00 includes a banquet the evening of the 25th. For registration materials or information, contact Prof. Robert William Love, Jr., History Dept., USNA, Annapolis, Md. 21402 (area code 301, 267-3301).

OTTAWA, 14-16 NOVEMBER 1979

The Canadian Committee for the History of the Second World War is sponsoring an international conference on The Second World War as a National Experience, to be held in Ottawa on 14, 15 and 16 November 1979. Plenary sessions will feature papers on Canada, the United States, Britain, France, Norway and Yugoslavia delivered by distinguished historians who are citizens of the countries concerned and an overview will be provided by Professor Theodore Ropp of Duke University. Eight workshop papers will be given on specialized aspects of the Canadian experience. Anyone interested in attending should write to the Secretary, Canadian Committee for the History of the Second World War, Directorate of History, Department of National Defence, Ottawa, K1A 0K2 for further information.
BUCHAREST, 10-17 AUGUST 1980

The 1980 International Congress of Historical Sciences is being held concurrently with meetings of the International Committee on the History of the Second World War, the International Commission on Military History, and other societies as well. The International Committee News Bulletin, attached to this issue of the newsletter, reports on the present status of plans for the meeting.

TWO INFORMATION REQUESTS

AIR FORCE HISTORICAL DOCUMENTATION

The Office of Air Force History is preparing to revise United States Air Force History--A Guide to Documentary Sources, originally published by this office in 1973. Seeking to enhance this finding aid for scholars and students conducting research in aviation and Air Force history, the History Office is soliciting assistance in locating documentary and photo collections inadvertently excluded from the current publication. In addition, two new areas will be added: 1) oral history collections; and 2) aeronautical museums. The History Office would appreciate anyone having knowledge of such collections submitting information to:

Mr. Lawrence J. Paszek, Senior Editor
Office of Air Force History (CVAH)
Building 5681
Bolling AFB, Washington, D. C. 20332

FIELD-MARSHAL LORD WILSON OF LIBYA

David G. Chandler, Head of the Dept. of War Studies and International Affairs at the Royal Military Academy at Sandhurst writes that he has been commissioned to write the official biography of the late Field-Marshal Lord Wilson of Libya, and would very much like to make contact with anyone who knew him, directly or indirectly, at any stage in his long and distinguished career: "If any readers can help me in this way, I would be most grateful if they could write to me at the Department of War Studies and International Affairs, RMA Sandhurst, Camberley, Surrey GU15 4PQ."

NEWSLETTER EDITOR'S NOTE

As indicated a year ago, when the first Membership Directory was reproduced in full in this newsletter, it is too long to be a regular annual feature. After this revision, only periodic supplements should be necessary. Meanwhile, because of the space it has preempted this spring, the fall 1979 newsletter will be expanded to include coverage of bibliography and research resources that would otherwise have been carried in this issue. The cost of reproduction and mailing, incidentally, is being borne in part by Southern Illinois University. As before, I have been aided by Mr. Lawrence D. Higgins in the compilation of the newsletter, which was typed by Mrs. Lorie Zaleskas, department secretary. DSD
BIBLIOGRAPHY

Because of the length of the Membership Directory and the International News Bulletin, this bibliography carries relatively few titles. It does include, however, a compilation of French works published in 1977 and 1978 kindly prepared by Dominique Veillon of the French Committee. We look forward to publishing similar bibliographies from other sister committees affiliated with the International Committee whenever they can be provided.

I. GENERAL

A. REFERENCE

Parrish, Thomas, ed.; Marshall, S. L. A., Brig. Gen., ret., chief consulting ed., The Simon and Schuster Encyclopedia of World War II. New York: Simon and Schuster, Cord Communications, 1978. xvi & 767 pp., including an index; over 200 maps and photographs; a glossary of acronyms, abbreviations, and foreign terms; a table of ranks; a chronological synopsis; and a selected English-language bibliography. $29.95. Compiled in consultation and association with a number of well qualified specialists (including several members of this committee), this large volume (printed on letter-sized paper with two columns of text and three of index) provides popular but not simplistic capsule narrative treatment of many of its 4000 entries, together with somewhat longer articles on topics lending themselves to general treatment: thus the overview on Japanese Conquests, 1941-42 (pp. 316-319) concludes with a cross-reference to Pacific War, 1942-45 (pp. 471-477), which concludes the survey. Specialists will find entries in their areas of expertise that might well have been handled quite differently, and this ambitious volume will almost certainly prove to be no more free of error than the first edition of any major reference compilation of comparable scope. These reservations notwithstanding, Thomas Parrish's well written and carefully edited Encyclopedia of World War II will come to be appreciated as a standard reference on the subject.

B. DOCUMENTATION

Detwiler, Donald S., ed.; Burdick, Charles B., and Bohwer, Jürgen, assoc. eds. World War II German Military Studies. Ten Parts in 24 vols. New York: Garland Publishing, Inc., 1979. A 13,000-page collection of over 200 reports prepared after the war by former Wehrmacht officers, now at the U. S. National Archives. The first volume is the Introduction & Guide not only to this facsimile reproduction, but also to the far larger collection (of over 2500 reports) from which these (in English) were selected. (A detailed catalogue, including the editor's introductory essay, is available from the publisher at 545 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022, from whom the set may be ordered, before 31 October 1979, for $950.00; thereafter it will cost $1100.00, a saving of some 15% over the individual volume price of $55.00.)
II. ORIGINS AND OUTBREAK OF THE WAR

Doenecke, Justus D. "Beyond Polemics: An Historiographical Re-Appraisal of American Entry into World War II," The History Teacher, vol. XII, no. 2 (February 1979), pp. 217-251. In this extensively annotated review essay (several hundred article and book titles in 156 notes), Doenecke provides a useful sequel to Wayne Cole's earlier survey, "American Entry into World War II: A Historiographical Appraisal," Mississippi Valley Historical Review, vol. XLIII (1957), pp. 595-617. (The History Teacher is published by the Society for History Education, California State University, Long Beach, Calif. 90840; individual copies of the journal cost $2.50; individual subscriptions are $10.00--with membership--annually, $8.00 for students, $12.00 for institutions.)

III. THE WAR

A revision of the prize-winning survey (available in English and Italian) by the chairman of the International Committee, who has recently become chairman of the French Committee as well.

IV. THE NATIONS AT WAR

A. CHINA

Tong, Te-kong, and Li Tsung-jen. The Memoirs of Li Tsung-jen. Studies of the East Asian Institute of Columbia University. Folkestone, Kent: Dawson; Boulder, Colorado: Westview Press, 1979. Frederick A. Praeger, Publisher. xxviii & 642 pp., incl. 5 maps, a 40-page glossary, and a 30-page index. $25.00. Dr. Tong, a staff member of the Chinese Oral History Project of Columbia University's East Asian Institute, worked for several years on the preparation of this manuscript with General Li, one of the most important of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's associates and adversaries. Among the ablest and most powerful of the warlords in the Nationalist camp, he defeated the Japanese at T'ai'ei-yehchuang (1938) and was Vice-President of Nationalist China when Chiang resigned as President on 21 January 1949--leaving Li the presidency during the final agony of the Republic of China.

The Chinese manuscript (available for consultation but not published) from which this volume was produced, as an abridged translation, grew out of a series of 168 interviews between Gen. Li, who had come to New York late in 1949 for serious surgery (returning to China only many years later) and Dr. Tong, once a very junior officer in an area under Li's command, now professor of Asian Studies at the City College of New York. A collaborative work between the strong-willed old warlord-statesman and his young interviewer-editor, it could never have been compiled by Li alone; but Tong has helped him offer insight, information, and perspective that an historian could otherwise not hope to glean. Apart from the value of its contents, this volume is a model of what Oral History, at its best, can produce.

[N. B. No comma follows Gen. Li's surname above, for it is in the normal Chinese sequence; the spine of the otherwise well-produced volume incorrectly names as authors Tong and Tsung-jen.]
B. FRANCE

(See also, following the regular bibliography, the special compilation of other French works published in 1977-78.)

C. GERMANY

Weinberg, Gerhard. "Recent German History: Some Comments and Perspectives," Russland, Deutschland, Amerika: Frankfurter Historische Abhandlungen, vol. 17. Wiesbaden: Steiner, 1979 (pp. 358-368). In this article, based on a paper initially presented at the Georgetown University History Forum in 1975, Prof. Weinberg reviews archival access to materials on 20th-century Germany, particularly the Third Reich and Second World War, and evaluates the significance of a number of recent publications (cited in 67 notes).

D. THE PHILIPPINES

E. THE SOVIET UNION

F. SPAIN

an appendix, extensive notes, a bibliography, and an index. $25.00. D764.K525. This is a detailed history not only of the Spanish division that served on the Russian front from 1941 to 1944 but the political, military, and ideological context in which they served. With cooperation in Spain and Russia as well as Britain, Germany, and the United States, the authors have succeeded in distilling a great mass of material and producing a work that on the one hand is a memorable unit history, and on the other, an important contribution to the history of the Second World War as a whole.

G. THE UNITED STATES

Dallek, Robert. Franklin D. Roosevelt and American Foreign Policy, 1932-1945. New York: Oxford University Press, 1979. xii & 657 pp., including extensive backnotes, a bibliography, and an index. $19.95. E806.D33. A mature synthesis based on extensive original research and reconsideration of previous work, Dallek's well-written, judicious volume will be utilized as the point of departure for further work on U. S. foreign policy during the Roosevelt administration, even by those who do not regard it as reasonably definitive.

V. THE HOLOCAUST

Walter Grab, ed. & intro. Jahrbuch des Instituts für deutsche Geschichte, vol. VIII. Universität Tel-Aviv, 1979. The eighth volume of Tel-Aviv University's Institute for German Studies' yearbook includes contributions by Yoash Meisler (Tel-Aviv) on "Himmler's Doctrine of the SS-Leadership" and Haim Shamir (also Tel-Aviv) on "Das 'Dritte Reich' und das Judentum in Rumänien - 1938." Other contributions from scholars in Austria, Britain, France, Germany, and the United States (Istvan Deák) deal with other, earlier periods; the yearbook is not primarily focussed on the Holocaust, but it has carried valuable contributions on that subject as well as the Third Reich and the Second World War, e. g., the articles in Jahrbuch 4 (1975) on "Feldmarschall Erich von Manstein und die deutsche Judenaussrottung in Russland" and in Jahrbuch 6 (1977) on "Probleme der Zwangsarbeit in der deutschen Kriegswirtschaft im Zweiten Weltkrieg," by Jehuda Wallach (Tel-Aviv), who also edited Beiheft 1, a special supplement to the yearbook, with the proceedings of the International Symposium (April 1975) on Germany and the Middle East 1835-1939.

VI. THE END AND THE AFTERMATH

at Potsdam. London: Routledge & Kegan Paul, 1977, Newsletter 20, item VI.2). The second English edition and the still more extensive (yet still concise) third German edition incorporate further research and documentation on the history of the brutal expulsion of some sixteen million Germans from Eastern and East-Central Europe, a tragic ordeal in which perhaps two million perished. This trenchant indictment of Anglo-American policy by de Zayas, an American of Spanish descent (and a member of this committee) who graduated from the Harvard Law School before studying at Göttingen, where he is now a research associate at the Institute of International Law, is an authoritative, uncompromising account of the realization of the grave apprehensions the U. S. Political Advisor for Germany, Robert Murphy, expressed in his memorandum from Berlin on 12 Oct. 1945 (printed in full in the third German edition on pp. 259-261), regarding "... the stupid tragedy now befalling thousands of innocent children, and women and old people. ... The mind reverts to other mass deportations [he wrote,] which horrified the world and brought upon the Nazis the odium which they so deserved. Those mass deportations by the Nazis provided part of the moral basis on which we waged the war and gave strength to our cause. Now the situation is reversed. We find ourselves in the invidious position of being partners in this German enterprise and as partners inevitably sharing the responsibility. ... As helpless as the United States may be to arrest a cruel and inhuman process which is continuing, it would seem that our Government could and should make its attitude ... unmistakably clear. It would be most unfortunate were the record to indicate that we are particeps to methods we have often condemned in other instances."

MEMBERSHIP DIRECTORY

Active members of the American Committee on the History of the Second World War are listed below in alphabetical order. The individual entries reflect the information provided on the annual membership renewal form—in some cases, only the name and address, in others, e.g., the compiler's, academic, military, or other rank or title and affiliation, as well as particular area[s] of interest or specialization. It would be appreciated if members would check their entries and send corrections or amendments to the compiler, the committee secretary.
