The Kansas Geographic Alliance (KGA) is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to advancing geographic literacy among the citizens of Kansas. The KGA is funded by the National Geographic Education Foundation with additional support from Kansas State University, Fort Hays State University, and the State Department of Education.

Our mission is to improve, promote, and support the teaching of geography in K-12 classrooms throughout Kansas; public, parochial, and home schools are welcome.

While the KGA is primarily a professional development organization for educators, membership is open to individuals in government, business, and the general public.

Leadership within the Kansas Geographic Alliance includes:
- Dr. John Harrington, Jr., Coordinator
- Dr. Paul Phillips, Co-coordinator
- Judy Dollard, Public Engagement Coordinator
