

KEEP CALM AND DON'T GET SUED: USING CONTENT ETHICALLY AND LEGALLY FOR FILM

FILMMAKING WORKSHOP

Are you posting videos online? Making films? Using music with your projects? It's likely that you use copyrighted content every day. Did you know that even simply posting a photo online can be copyright infringement? Fortunately, there are simple alternatives, and we can teach you how to navigate the complex web of copyrighted content—without sacrificing creativity and innovation! The workshop is geared towards film festival participants, but all are encouraged to attend.

March 9th, 2017 5-6pm Hale Library Room 401

Presenter: Ryan Otto Digital Scholarship Librarian