GENERAL

36-1 Behavioral, Social, Mental Health, and Substance Abuse Research With Diverse Populations (NIH)

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) is committed to supporting research that will increase scientific understanding of the health status of various population groups and lead to more effective health interventions and services for individuals within these groups. High priority is placed on research with groups that appear to have distinctive health risk profiles but thus far have received insufficient attention from investigators. This Program Announcement highlights a particular set of such groups: lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgendered, and related populations (designed here as LGBT populations). PA-01-096 (NIHG 05/25/01)

36-2 Fellowships in Ethics (Harvard)

The Harvard University Center for Ethics and the Professions encourages teaching and research about ethical issues in public life and the professions. Its resident Fellowships support outstanding teachers and scholars who wish to develop their ability to address questions of moral choice in such areas as business, education, government, law, and medicine. Preference will be given to applicants at an early stage of their careers, normally no more than ten years from the terminal degree in their field.

Deadline: 12/1/2001

36-3 Cancer Prevention, Control, Behavioral and Population Sciences Career Development Award (NIH)

The purpose of the Cancer Prevention, Control, Behavioral and Population Sciences Career Development Award (K07) is to support the career development of investigators who have made a commitment to focus their research endeavors on cancer prevention, control, behavioral and the population sciences. This mechanism provides support for three to five years of specialized didactic study and mentored research for individuals with a health professional or science doctoral degree who are not fully established investigators. Examples of relevant disciplines for this PA include any aspect of human cancer prevention (modifiable risk factors, new animal models and extrapolation of these models to human cancer, genetic predisposition to cancer and detection of precursor lesions, and behavioral research and behavioral intervention trials in cancer prevention), epidemiology (biochemical, genetic, molecular), biostatistics, human cancer genetics, human nutrition, behavioral and social sciences, health promotion, health services and health policy research. PAR-01-135 (NIHG 09/07/01)

AGRICULTURE

36-4 Grain Sorghum Research (KS Grain Sorghum)

The Kansas Grain Sorghum Commission is soliciting research and education Pre-Proposals for FY 2003. Animal/Human Nutrition Studies and Value-Added Projects are identified for strong emphasis by the Commission. Specific Value-Added Projects of significant importance are: Opportunities for identity preserved grain sorghum marketing/processing technology; Energy and BTU efficiency of grain sorghum for uses in ethanol and heat generation; Research in grain sorghum advantages over corn and rice usage in pet food; and Opportunities for speciality grown grain sorghum in Kansas.

36-6 Poetry Grants (Bynner)

The Witter Bynner Foundation is interested in promoting poetry as an important element in a balanced society. To that end, the Foundation encourages proposals which expand awareness of the possibilities of poetry in the lives of people. The Foundation supports programs that reaffirm our sense of community, respect for the natural world, and the free exchange of ideas, feelings, and concerns within the global community. Of interest is the development of transferable model programs which use poetry as a vehicle to deal with specific social, educational, and therapeutic concerns, and the nurturing of emerging poetic voices as well as established poets from diverse cultures.

36-8 Center for Human Values: Laurance S. Rockefeller Visiting Fellowships (Princeton)

Each year the University Center supports outstanding scholars and teachers who are interested in devoting a year in residence at Princeton to writing about ethics and human values and participating in various activities of the University Center. A central activity for the Laurance S. Rockefeller Fellows is participation with University Center faculty members in a Fellows Seminar, which discusses participants' work-in-progress. LSR Fellows also participate in other activities of the University Center, including seminars, colloquia, and public lectures. Fellows typically have a doctorate or professional post-graduate degree and a regular faculty position. They cannot be in the process of completing a dissertation.

36-12 Ocean, Ice, and Climate Research (NASA)

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) intends to solicit proposals for ocean, ice, and climate research contributing to a unified approach to studying the more slowly varying components of the earth's climate system. The NASA Research Announcement (NRA) specifically seeks proposals for scientific investigators and activities contributing to the continuation and enhancement of NASA's Physical and Biological Oceanography and Cryospheric Sciences Programs. It also seeks proposals that utilize this knowledge in facilitating the development and evaluation of models and data assimilation systems that include representations of the oceanic and cryospheric aspects of the Earth System. In particular, this announcement solicits investigations that contribute to NASA's Seasonal-to-Interannual Prediction Project (NSIPP). NRA-01-OES-03
