GENERAL

42-1 Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities Research Centers 2004 (HHS)

The National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD), through Mental Retardation, and Developmental Disabilities (MRDD) Branch Center for Developmental Biology and Perinatal Medicine (CDBPM), invites Center Core Grant (P30) applications to advance diagnosis, prevention, treatment, and amelioration of mental retardation and developmental disabilities. This Request for Applications (RFA) seeks applications from institutions that meet the qualifications for a program of MRDD research. The primary objective of the NICHD Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities Research Centers (MRDD-RC) Program is to provide core support and facilities for cohesive, interdisciplinary research and research training. Funds for the research projects using these core facilities come from independent sources including Federal, State, and private organizations. RFA-HD-03-027 (NIHG 09/12/03)

ARTS & HUMANITIES

42-3 Islamic World Arts Initiative

(IIE)

The Islamic World Arts Initiative provides grants in support of projects that foster cultural understanding between the Islamic World and the United States. It is grounded in the belief that through the exchange of art and artists and the development of related opportunities for dialogue and learning, lasting bridges between cultures can be built and sustained. The Islamic World Arts Initiative will make grants to artists, scholars, and arts organizations in support of presentations, exhibitions, symposia, creation of new work, and collaborative projects by contemporary performing, literary, media and visual artists. Projects eligible for support in Round I: Commissioning Projects; Consortium Projects; and Residency Projects. Applications are restricted to one per organization/artist. Please contact Ted Knous, 532-6195, tknous@ksu.edu by November 7 if you are interested in applying.

EDUCATION

42-4 Fulbright American Studies Institute (STATE)

The State Department's Bureau of Educational Cultural Affairs seeks proposals for Fulbright American Studies Institutes for foreign university faculty and secondary educators. The six-week programs, scheduled for the summer of 2004, are designed as intensive, academically rigorous seminars intended for an experienced group of fellow scholars from outside the United States. On institute will be funded in each of the following thematic areas: American Civilization, meant to provide a deeper understanding of U.S. society, culture, values and institutions for foreign faculty attempting to develop or enhance courses focusing on the U.S.; U.S. Political Economy and the Global Economic System, to include topics such as philosophical assumptions and social norms underpinning the democratic market system, the evolution of post-war American economic thought on the role of the market and the state, the roles of Congress, the executive branch, private corporations and interest groups in economic policy making and regulation; and American Studies for Foreign Secondary School Educators, designed for a multinational group of up to 30 experienced educators, including teachers and curriculum developers, and addressing both the history and evolution of institutions and values and contemporary issues.
