European Study of Photography

PROGRAM

The European Study of Photography study tour is a 3 credit hour, 600-level studio course that takes place in France and England, tracing the development of the medium of photography into a commercially and artistically viable process. History and on-site study centered on visitations to historic sites within this development and supplemented by lectures by course faculty. Photographic studio instruction on the visual strategies employed by early and contemporary photographers which the students will utilize their own production of digital images also overseen by the professor will be used throughout the duration of the study tour. For students who chose to follow a more academic approach they will have the opportunity to focus on research and submit a written discourse on the experience and their relationship to the history of the medium.

DATES

Course Dates: May 23 – August 13, 2010

Travel Dates: May 23 – June 20, 2010
