Université Cheikh Anta Diop de Dakar, Senegal

www.ucad.sn

Some level of proficiency in French is required to attend UCAD in Dakar, but don't let that deter you! Senegal is one of the most beautiful and diverse countries in Africa and yet remains relatively little known. A stable democracy, friendly people, moderate climate and an efficient communication system combine to make this one of the most accessible of African nations. Gain first-hand experience and study in this fascinating country that is regarded as a vibrant cultural center in Africa, a positive model of a modern and democratic African nation, and whose complex history spanning the birth and development of Islamic Sufism, the gold and slave trade, the impact and residue of French colonialism, accounts greatly for its contemporary diverse culture. All participants are required to take at least one French language course at the Institut de Français pour Etudiants Etrangers (IFE); these courses at IFE are available based on students' command of the French language.

International Student Exchange Program (ISEP)*

Caribbean/South America: Through ISEP, you can study French in Guadeloupe, Martinique, or French Guiana! Two campuses in Guadeloupe specialize in business, law, science, sports, or humanities. Martinique offers economics, law, literature, political science, and spicy tropical Creole cuisine. On the mainland in French Guiana, you'll find great courses in a broad range of majors as well as backpacking excursions in the Amazon rainforest! The French Islands will expose you to a unique blend of French and local cultures, customs and languages. Some French language proficiency is required.

La Réunion

Located in the heart of the Indian Ocean, Université de la Réunion offers unique courses in African/Créole culture, tropical environmental studies, and anthropology in a multiracial society. La Réunion is famous for its Indo-African-French cuisine, beaches, rugged hiking trails, picturesque volcano, and colorful markets

You can perfect your French in Quebec. CCIS offers French language study at the Université du Québec à Chicoutimi. This beautiful area of Canada is renowned for its spectacular fjords, varied agriculture, forest landscapes, and its interior sea, the Lac-Saint-Jean. The Saguenay-Lac-Saint-Jean region is the most francophone region in North America where almost 300,000 people speak French and live their daily lives in French, everywhere and at all times!

These are just a few of your many options.
