Survey Results

The Classified Senate conducted a survey on May 2, 2006 with the assistance of the Office of Planning and Analysis. This survey was conducted to gather information on the number of classified employees who work a second job and why. While the results of the survey are compelling they are not surprising given the salary conditions of classified state employees over recent years. The information gathered from the survey will be a useful tool in providing statistical support regarding issues of state budgetary funding for classified employees.

In review of the overall results, 1,044 classified employees responded (58.32%) out of 1,790 that were surveyed which was a very good response rate. Out of the total number of classified employees who responded, 41.5% or 429 classified employees said they had a second job. Of those 429 respondents, 86.9% indicated that the second job was out of financial necessity. In addition, 22% indicated that another member of the household had a second job with 82.6% indicating that the second job was for additional income.

One of the opened ended questions on the survey asked "If you are of retirement age, are you not able to retire because of health or life insurance benefits?" A majority of the respondents listed the cost of the health insurance as a primary factor for not retiring early or even wanting to retire at age 65. Retirement at any age would put too much of a financial strain on their already struggling finances. A common response recorded was "benefits and retirement have not kept up with living costs in the past 15 years. I would be forced to take a full-time job to supplement retirement in order to maintain health coverage."

The Classified Senate would like to thank everyone who took the time to participate in the survey. The responses will prove to be a valuable resource in the future when talking to university administrators or state legislators about the salary conditions for classified employees at Kansas State University.
