Review the Program Budget

Faculty-Led program budgets are split into three categories of expenses: Faculty-Led Program Fee, Estimated K-State Tuition and Fees and Estimated Other Personal Expenses. Once a program fee has been decided, this amount cannot be increased. However, tuition and fees and out of pocket costs are subject to change in accordance with university fee increases and variations in individual enrollment, travel, housing, and spending.

Course term
- Determines the term that the program fee and tuition will be billed to KSIS
- Fall (early August)
- Spring (early January)
- Summer (mid-May)

Study Tour Term
- When students will actually go abroad. Sometimes this is different than the course term.

Program Fee
- The program fee usually includes lodging, transportation in country, health insurance, excursions and some group meals. Some faculty-led program fees also include airfare.

Tuition and Fees
- All students will pay K-State in-state tuition rates regardless of resident status for faculty-led programs.

Other Personal Expenses
- Some out of pocket expenses will need to be paid ahead of time (such as passport or airfare) while most are paid once you are in country (such as meals or personal expenses)
