Study Abroad (Semester)

Giessen, Germany

Exchange Program: Justus Liebig Universität - Giessen

About: Justus Liebig University is one of the oldest institutions of higher education in the German-speaking world and K-State's first reciprocal agreement for studying abroad. K-State students have been studying abroad here since 1960! This program is a great fit for students who have taken at least four semesters of German and are invested in continuing. Most course offerings are in German. Students participating in this program are strongly advised to sign up for the pre-semester language program in which they get acclimated to speaking German and get help settling in. Because of the academic calendar, Giessen is a better fit for students who want to study abroad for the academic year or spring term only.

Friedrichshafen, Germany

Exchange Program: Zeppelin University

About: This is a unique German program that mirrors the KSU academic calendar, making it easy to study in either semester. Zeppelin is a small university with a high degree of interaction between students and lecturers. 70% of their classes are taught in German, but they also offer business, political science, and communications classes in English. There are many on-campus activities and initiatives, as well as excursions exploring the surrounding region. Zeppelin University's campus is on the shore of Lake Constance, located in a region with one of the most beautiful landscapes in Germany. Embedded in the border triangle Germany-Austria-Switzerland, the university is in the immediate vicinity to attractive metropolises such as Zürich, Munich, and Stuttgart.

Lüneburg, Germany

USAC Program: Leuphana University - Volgershall

About: Set in the stunningly beautiful town of Lüneburg an hour south of Hamburg, students at Leuphana are able to take German language courses and a selection of courses in English in the fields of Political Science, History, and Anthropology. Housing options include living with German host families or in apartments with German students. USAC offers fantastic student support services, making this a good option for students with limited German language exposure. Summer and semester options available, including opportunities for internships.

Berlin, Germany

ISA Program: Freie Universität Berlin

About: Founded in the Cold War period, Freie Universität Berlin was established when anti-communists students protested against having to attend Humboldt-Universität zu Berlin, which was located in East Germany and courses were taught by the Soviet Military Administration. FUB was the first university for the "Free World" in West Berlin. The campus is located about 40 minutes outside of the city center. Students can enroll in courses instructed in English or German. They will take classes alongside other international students.
