AMETH 160: Introduction to American Ethnic Studies

The Introduction to American Ethnic Studies course will provide you with a context for exploring many of the dynamics of race and ethnicity in the U.S. and select countries. In addition, a socio-historical framework will be used to help you understand racial and ethnic relations between the major ethnoracial groups in the US, i.e. Native Americans, African Americans, Asian Americans, European Americans, and Hispanic Americans.

AMETH 449: Comparative Ethnic Studies 1
Sect. A: TU 1:05-2:20 – Dr. Brunson

The purpose of this course is to understand the principles and processes that shape the patterns of relations among racial, ethnic, and other groups in society. The course does not discuss each racial and ethnic group individually, but rather enhances students’ understanding of why such groups interact as they do. In particular, the course investigates the relationships between dominant and subordinate racial and ethnic groups in the United States. The course also examines theoretical approaches and key concepts in the study of race and ethnicity, focusing on both the individual level and larger societal level. Pre-req: AMETH 160.
