

Applying Harmony Talents in Careers

- Talk to your mentors about the career planning process. You will value their wisdom and expertise as you make decisions.
- Interview people who are currently in jobs that interest you. Ask them what they find most rewarding about their work. Shadow them to see what they really do day in and day out.
- You work well and are helpful in team project environments. You help others work together even more productively. Your Harmony talents promote emotional stability and calmness in the group.
- Environments where consensus is the preferred strategy for decision-making and where you can work your magic behind the scenes are likely to bring out your best.
- Collaborative environments in which you can surround yourself with others dedicated to win-win solutions will allow your Harmony talents to flourish.
- Environments that lack structure or are unpredictable from day to day, or that demand high levels of creativity, are not as likely to be comfortable for you.
- Interview statisticians, tax experts, or financial planners and then compare their daily work with those in more people-oriented fields to see which sounds more agreeable to you.

Applying Harmony Talents in Academics

- Seek opinions and ideas from experts. Their insights will help you formulate your own beliefs and philosophy.
- You perform best in an environment where people listen to one another and seek to understand each other, rather than force their ideas on one another.
- You add a calmness or agreeableness to any group.
- If the professor frequently changes assignments and due dates in the middle of the term, seek reasons for the changes and share them with classmates, rather than joining the dissension of others.