Biography

DOUGLAS K. BENSON

Doug Benson grew up in the high green mountains of Taos, in northern New Mexico, where Latinos and American Indians have formed the ethnic majority for centuries. As a child, he began to notice that his friends were profiled in stores, schools and traffic. He would not understand why until much later. It was there that he got his first exposure to Spanish.

Dr. Benson received the B.A. in Spanish and French from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces in 1966, after two initial years studying chemistry and physics. He also met his future wife Cecille there; they will celebrate 50 years of marriage in August 2015. He holds a Ph.D. in Spanish and French Literature (1974) from the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. It was during his university experiences that he began to expand his growing awareness of the cultures of Spanish-speaking peoples and to become involved in their issues.

For eleven years he taught Spanish at Hastings College in Nebraska. He was almost the only person in Hastings who spoke Spanish at first, but gradually members of immigrant families began to contact him and attend his classes.

In 1980 he was hired by the Department of Modern Languages at K-State and almost immediately made contacts with multicultural faculty and staff who generously invited him to participate in the university's diversity work. Some of these activities include:

- 1984-87: Development Committee for the American Ethnic Studies Secondary Major Program, served on Governance Board until it became a department in 2013.
- 1989-1999: Charter member of the President's Commission on Multicultural Affairs.
- 1995-2002: Planning Committee for the Kansas Regents (now Michael Tilford) statewide Conference on Diversity and Multiculturalism in the University Classroom.
- 1996-2012: Charter member of KSU Tilford Group on multicultural course transformation.
- 1997-2009: Co-chair (with Candice Hironaka) of Community Cultural Harmony Week (formerly Racial Ethnic Harmony Week founded by K-State student Barbara Baker in 1988).
- 1999-2003: Faculty advisor for the Hispanic American Leadership Organization (HALO).
- 2001: Founding member of Alianza.

Dr. Benson has published some 30 articles and book chapters on the post-Civil War poetry of Spain, Chicano poetry of the Southwest, and language teaching, and has presented more than 60 professional papers and workshops in the U.S. and abroad. He was promoted to full professor in 2004, and has received awards for teaching as well as service to multicultural students. The awards include the Commerce Bank Presidential Awards for Excellence in Teaching (1999), recognition to Service to Underrepresented Students (2000), the Dr. Ron and Rae Iman Outstanding Faculty Award for Teaching (K-State Alumni Association, 2008), and the university's highest teaching award, the Coffman Chair for University Distinguished Teaching Scholars (2009-2016).
