

Safety: Expect the Unexpected

VOLUME 4, ISSUE 9

SEPTEMBER 21, 2011

KSU Division of Facilities

Better a thousand times careful than once dead. (Proverb)

Sometimes, you feel you should proceed with caution but are afraid that someone else will judge your behavior and think badly of you. When it comes to personal safety or the safety of those around us, you can't be too careful. No one has ever literally died of embarrassment, but people have been killed or injured because they didn't want to appear to be too careful in front of others. You only have one life, and it's precious. Never apologize for making choices that are designed to preserve your safety.

Secure Your Work Area

Recently, we had a to secure the area not secured preventing unauthorized access to the area. It is very public access areas warning to place barricades, caution signs, cones or tape signifying danger is present. If we fail complaint from a and access is gained professor that when causing someone to using a JLG the area be injured, that is our problem. If we secure the area and breeches someone t h e security important measures resulting when working in in injury, that is their problem.

ALWAYS SECURE WORK AREAS ON CAMPUS!

National Preparedness Month-Are You Ready?

As we honor those who lost their lives in the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001 we can commemorate their tremendous sacrifice by ensuring that our communities and families are ready in the event of any emergency situation. To assist you in your plans FEMA has provided "Basic Emergency Supply Kit" (page 2).

	Recommended Items to Include in a Basic Emergency Supply Kit:
	0
	Water, one gallon of water per person per day for at least three days, for drinking and sanitation
	Food, at least a three-day supply of non-perishable food
	Battery-powered or hand crank radio and a NOAA Weather Radio with tone alert and extra batteries for both
	Flashlight and extra batteries
	First aid kit
	Whistle to signal for help
	Dust mask, to help filter contaminated air and plastic sheeting and duct tape to shelter-in-place
	Moist towelettes, garbage bags and plastic ties for personal sanitation
	Wrench or pliers to turn off utilities
	Can opener for food (if kit contains canned food)
	Local maps

Through its Ready Campaign,

the U.S. Department of Homeland Security educates and empowers Americans to take some simple steps to prepare for and respond to potential emergencies, including natural disasters and terrorist attacks. Ready asks individuals to do three key things: get an emergency supply kit, make a family emergency plan, and be informed about the different types of emergencies that could occur and their appropriate responses.

All Americans should have some basic supplies on hand in order to survive for at least three days if an emergency occurs. Following is a listing of some basic items that every emergency supply kit should include. However, it is important that individuals review this list and consider where they live and the unique needs of their family in order to create an emergency supply kit that will meet these needs. Individuals should also consider having at least two emergency supply kits, one full kit at home and smaller portable kits in their workplace, vehicle or other places they spend time.

Federal Emergency Management Agency Washington, DC 20472

