6. Report on Campus Technology: Next Gen Conference, Boston
   a. The following URL should take you to recordings of the conference proceedings. If not, you can Google Campus Technology then follow to event and recordings and see sessions. (I had to download a little viewer application.) For our purposes I recommend the Keynote by Adrian Sanner, CIO, Arizona State, "The 'New' American University. He had a vision of where high education needs to be. Also, David Miller, "Forget Coursecasting: Podcasting as Educational Inspiration at UConn." - http://hosted.mediasite.com/hosted4/Catalog/?cid=242fec69-f0be-41f4-bfd7-5b25bdcd4472
   b. Fred was at the Vision 20/20 Conference and perhaps can share insights.

7. New Faculty Orientation. At the new faculty orientation Faculty Senate Executive Committee members have 5 minutes to outline their committee's work. I submitted the following general statement, "Following a major IT needs assessment during the 2007-2008 year, FSCOT will be working closely with the central IT administration to integrate the Next-Gen, 2.0 technologies in to the teaching, research, and outreach strategies. Among the core initiatives in the coming year will be a new and updated email system, enhanced integration of Web 2.0 tools and policy development." What "bulleted" items do you think I should mention to flesh out this general statement the will be reflective of our planned work this year?
