Alma Mater

by H.W. Jones, class of 1888

*I know a spot that I love full well,
'Tis not in forest nor yet in dell;
Ever it holds me in magic spell,
I think of thee, Alma Mater.*

*K-S-U, we'll carry thy banner high.
K-S-U, long, long may thy colors fly.
Loyal to thee, thy children will swell the cry.
Hail, Hail, Hail, Alma Mater.*

About Kansas State University

Founded in 1863 as the nation's first operational land-grant university, Kansas State University's mission is to foster excellent teaching, research and service that develop a highly skilled and educated citizenry necessary to advancing the well-being of Kansas, the nation and the international community. K-State embraces diversity and inclusion, encourages engagement and is committed to the discovery of knowledge, the education of undergraduate and graduate students, and improvement in the quality of life and standard of living of those we serve.

K-State has campuses in Manhattan, Olathe and Salina — known as Kansas State Polytechnic Campus — as well as K-State Global Campus, which serves distance education students. When it comes to academics, K-State's majors and degree programs offer pathways to hundreds of career options that can be tailored to individual goals and dream careers. Interest areas offered through K-State's nine colleges and Graduate School include agriculture, food and natural resources; architecture, art and design; aviation; business; communications, media and marketing; computer science and information technology; education and leadership; engineering and construction; government, law and social sciences; health professions; hospitality and tourism; human and social services; humanities, culture and society; science and mathematics; veterinary medicine; and visual and performing arts.

Forbes magazine, U.S. News and World Report and the Princeton Review all recognize K-State as one of the best universities in the nation, which is backed by the strong support K-State receives from its alumni and friends. With more than 200,000 alumni, the K-State Alumni Association ranks No. 1 in the Big 12 Conference for the percentage of graduates who are association members. The KSU Foundation recently wrapped up the highly successful Innovation and Inspiration Campaign, raising $1.6 billion for K-State.

Called the "Silicon Valley for biodefense" because of its leadership in food safety and security and agrodefense, K-State is home to four Feed the Future Innovation Labs, an initiative by the U.S. Agency for International Development to increase food production in nations with limited resources. The university also is home to the Biosecurity Research Institute, a biosafety level-3 facility devoted to comprehensive infectious disease research and training. Construction is underway adjacent to the Manhattan campus of the federal government's National Bio and Agro-Defense Facility, which will be the nation's premier animal disease research facility.

Total research efforts at Kansas State University have led to more than 330 patents to date. The university has more than 90 research centers, including the 8,600-acre Konza Prairie Biological Station and the Johnson Cancer Research Center. Our distinguished faculty members are tackling such issues as feeding a hungry world expected to reach 50 billion in population by 2050, climate change, cybersecurity, sustainable energy, urban revitalization and more — and they often involve undergraduate students in their work. K-State Research and Extension also serves the citizens of Kansas through a variety of ways, with personnel, offices, research centers, programs and more throughout the state.

About our ceremonies

University mace

The Kansas State University mace made its debut in September 2009 at the inauguration of Kirk H. Schulz as the university's 13th president. A mace is a decorative symbol of office and typically carried at the front of academic processions. Designed by Tom Boley, a 1970 K-State alumnus, the mace is made from a purple wood called purpleheart and a light-colored maple.

Academic dress

The history of academic dress dates to medieval European universities of the 12th century. Universities in the U.S. have standardized academic dress so its features are common and uniform throughout the country.

The gown — At K-State, gowns are black and typically made of synthetic material or worsted wool. The pattern varies with the degree held: open sleeves for the bachelor's degree; long, closed sleeves with slits for the hands for the master's degree; and round, bell sleeves for the doctoral degree.

The hood — Students receiving graduate degrees wear hoods. The master's hood is shorter than the doctoral hood and lacks the panels of the doctoral hood. Hoods are lined with the colors of the university; K-State's lining is purple with two inverted chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is the color pertaining to the subject of the degree.

The caps — All bachelor's and master's degree candidates wear a black mortarboard. Doctoral students may wear a mortarboard or a soft velvet tam with either six or eight sides. The tams can be dark blue or black for Doctor of Philosophy candidates, and light blue for Doctor of Education candidates. Doctor of Veterinary Medicine candidates wear a black mortarboard. Tassel color for all degree candidates depends on the degree and/or degree field.

Speaker

Richard B. Myers

Richard B. Myers was named the 14th president of Kansas State University in November 2016 by the Kansas Board of Regents. Myers' appointment came after serving as interim university president since April 2016.

A 1965 K-State graduate with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering, Myers joined the U.S. Air Force through the university's Air Force ROTC program.

From 2001-2005, he was the 15th chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. As chairman, Myers was the highest-ranking uniformed officer of U.S. military forces and served as the principal military adviser to the president, secretary of defense and the National Security Council. The native Kansan from Merriam retired as a four-star general.

As a command pilot, Myers logged more than 4,100 flying hours, including 600 combat hours. His largest commands included U.S. Forces Japan and 5th Air Force at Yokota Air Base, Japan; Pacific Air Forces at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii; and the North American Aerospace Defense Command, U.S. Space Command and Air Force Space Command at Peterson Air Force Base in Colorado. He has received numerous awards and decorations for his service, including the Legion of Merit, French Legion of Honor, Presidential Medal of Freedom and the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Air Force Association.

Myers serves as the Kansas State University Foundation professor of military history and leadership. He received a Master of Business Administration from Auburn University in 1977. He also graduated from Air Command and Staff College at Maxwell Air Force Base in 1977, U.S. Army War College at Carlisle Barracks in 1981, and the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, where he completed a program for Senior Executives in National and International Security in 1991.

Throughout Myers' active duty and world travels, he continued relationships with his friends back home. He has provided instruction, insight and inspiration to current students and the K-State community. In 2000, he presented the 118th Landon Lecture at Kansas State University, speaking about the military's role in international relations. K-State named the military science building, home of the Army ROTC and Air Force ROTC programs, Gen. Richard B. Myers Hall in honor of his service and dedication. A member of the Kansas State University Foundation Board of Trustees, Myers and his wife, Mary Jo, served as co-chairs of Kansas State University's Innovation and Inspiration Campaign, which raised $1.6 billion for the university.

Since 1985, Van Etten has been an audiologist and currently works for the Topeka School District as its chief audiologist. In of Hearing and remained on the board until 2006. Between 2004 and 2007, she served on the advisory committee for KAN Be Healthy, a Kansas State Medicaid program for youth and young adults. In 2010, Van Etten was appointed to the board of governors of the Eisenhower Excellence in Public Service Series. She has served on several of the board's committees, including chair of the Academic Affairs Standing Committee.

1988, Van Etten was on the board of directors for the Kansas Commission for the Deaf and Hard

She has served on the Midwest Higher Education Compact as a representative and commissioner, Washburn University Board of Regents, the Higher Education and K-12 Coordination Council, and Governor's Educational Council — committee co-chair. Most recently, she was appointed by Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos to serve a five-year term as a member of the National Advisory Committee on Foreign Medical Education and Accreditation.

Van Etten received her bachelor's degree in education in 1977, a Master of Audiology degree in 1981 and her doctoral degree in audiology in 2002. She is a national board member of the National Federation of the Grand Order of Pachyderm Clubs, and is the founder and current president of the Shawnee County Pachyderm Club.

Speaker

Hannah E. Shear

Hannah E. Shear was raised on a diversified farm in east-central Kentucky with a predominant focus on cow-calf production. She attended the University of Kentucky and earned a dual Bachelor of Science in animal sciences and agricultural economics while also being actively involved in the College of Agriculture Ambassador program and a member of the livestock judging team.

Continuing her education, Shear went on to earn a dual Master of Science in agricultural economics and rural development from the University of Arkansas and Ghent University in Belgium, respectively. Her thesis focused on the implementation of a regional food reserve in West Africa and she spent several months in Senegal collecting data and working with AfricaRice.

After completing her master's, Shear worked for Maryland Extension as a faculty educator and program coordinator for the Beginning Farmer Success Program. She returned to the University of Arkansas to teach in the agricultural economics and agribusiness department. Her courses included Farm Business Management, Farm Financials and Food & Agri-Marketing.

Now at Kansas State University, Shear is a doctoral candidate in agricultural economics with a research focus on farm management, livestock economics and animal health. In addition to several departmental and campus leadership positions, Shear is the 2020-2021 president of the Graduate Student Council and nanoparticle arrays and the reactivity of nanostructured metal oxide particles.

Christine Aikens is an expert in physical chemistry and her research group aims to develop a theoretical understanding of the relationship between structure and properties of nanomaterials. She studies the structure and spectroscopic properties of gold and silver nanoparticles

Her current research aims to understand the fundamental physical principles that underlie plasmon-enhanced photocatalysis, which is a process that uses light to control chemical reactions in a way that requires less energy input than in currently used industrial catalytic processes.

Aikens came to K-State in 2007. Her research has been supported by more than $3.8 million from organizations such as the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Department of Energy and the Air Force Office of Scientific Research. She has published more than 110 articles in scientific publications and has given more than 150 professional presentations.

Aikens received the 2020 Women Chemists Committee Rising Star Award; was honored with the Journal of Physical Chemistry A Lectureship in 2015; was named a Kavli Frontiers of Science fellow in 2012; was awarded an Alfred P. Sloan Research Fellowship and a Camille Dreyfus Teacher-Scholar Award in 2011; and received the NSF CAREER award in 2010. At K-State, she received the 2017-2018 Commerce Bank and W.T. Kemper Foundation Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award and the 2014 Segebrecht Distinguished Faculty Achievement Award.

Thomas Barstow

and postdoctoral researchers. His research has been sponsored with nearly $8.8 million from organizations such as NASA, the American Heart

Thomas Barstow directs the Human Exercise Physiology Lab, where he studies the control of muscle metabolism, the integration of pulmonary and cardiovascular systems and the mechanisms of fatigue and exercise intolerance. He has advised more than 76 undergraduate students, graduate students Association and the National Institutes of Health. He has collaborated with scientists from Canada, Japan, the U.K., Belgium, France and Italy on a variety of research projects.

Barstow has published more than 170 peer-reviewed papers, 180 abstracts and four chapters. He has given 65 invited lectures and presentations. He is a fellow of the American College of Sports Medicine and the American Physiological Society.

At Kansas State University, he is a three-time recipient of the Professorial Award for Sustained Excellence, a two-time recipient of the Making a Difference Award from the Women in Engineering and Science Program, and received the Faculty Research Excellence Award from the College of Health and Human Sciences.

A K-State faculty member since 1996, Barstow has served as the graduate program coordinator for the university's kinesiology department since 2007.

Commerce Bank and W.T. Kemper Foundation Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award

Thomas Phillips

A world leader in research and applications of integrated management of stored product pests, Thomas Phillips' expertise in chemical ecology and insect behavior has contributed to his success in designing monitoring and mating disruption systems for insects. Insects account for more than half of human food that is lost postharvest in developing countries. Phillips' development of holistic management systems addresses this critical issue related to food security.

Phillips' research has been supported by more than $9 million in grants and has led to the publication of 164 journal articles and 15 books or book chapters. He has given numerous research presentations, including approximately 80 invited talks. His contributions to graduate education at K-State include advising or co-advising 14 master's and 16 doctoral students who have been successfully employed in academia and industry, with many now national or international leaders in their fields. He also has mentored 15 postdoctoral scientists and visiting researchers during his career.

Joining K-State's entomology department in 2007, Phillips served as department head until 2011. He has taught classes in general entomology, insect chemical ecology, forest and shade tree insects, dendrology and stored product entomology. His work has been recognized with numerous awards, including the U.S. Department of Agriculture Certificate of Merit, Wendell E. Burkholder Award for Excellence in Stored Product Protection and the New Product Development Award from the Entomological Society of America.

Donghai Wang

Donghai Wang has established an internationally known research program on bioconversion of renewable materials into biofuels, chemicals and biomaterials, including protein adhesives, resins, and biodegradable composites; and near-infrared technology for analysis of physical and chemical properties of biomaterials. He has conducted fundamental and applied research to overcome technical barriers for cost-effective production of biofuels from both starch-based feedstocks such as corn, sorghum and millets, and cellulosic biomass such as grass, crop residues and woody biomass.

Wang also collaborates with materials scientists to develop biodegradable protein-based adhesives and oil-based resins. He conducts research on development of near-infrared spectroscopy models as rapid methods for analysis and characterization of physical and chemical properties of biomaterials. He serves as co-director of the Bio Materials and Technology Laboratory at K-State.

Wang has served as principal investigator on more than 40 projects and co-principal investigator for more than 30 projects. His funded work has exceeded $23 million, with about $5.5 million in direct support of his research. The holder of three U.S. patents, he has authored or co-authored 210 peer-reviewed journal articles and 15 book chapters and more than 180 meeting papers and presentations. Wang has earned several national and international awards from the American Society of Agricultural and Biological Engineers and the Rain Bird Engineering Concept of the Year Award in 2010 and 2016. He received the U.S. Department of Agriculture Certificate of Appreciation Award in 2008 and the Applied Energy Journal Award for highly cited research and reviewed paper in 2016.

Among Wang's contributions to graduate education at K-State include advising or co-advising 11 master's and 24 doctoral students.

Speaker

Ryane E. Englar

Ryane E. Englar earned her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine from the Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine in 2008. She practiced as an associate veterinarian in companion animal practice before transitioning into academia to advocate for skills-based training.

A former K-State College of Veterinary Medicine faculty member from 2017-2020, Englar now serves as director of veterinary skills development and founding faculty member at the rank of associate professor at the University of Arizona College of Veterinary Medicine. She is responsible for developing the content and delivery for the Clinical and Professional Skills coursework.

While at K-State, Englar designed and launched the Clinical Skills curriculum. Before joining

K-State, she was a founding faculty member at Midwestern University between 2014-2017, which introduced her to the Calgary-Cambridge model for the clinical consultation. This framework gave her a solid foundation for teaching clinical communication skills that she ultimately incorporated into an extensive standardized client communication curriculum. While at Midwestern, she expanded her credentials by earning recognition as a diplomate of the American Board of Veterinary Practitioners in canine and feline practice.

Englar is an accomplished author, both of veterinary textbooks as well as publications in peer-reviewed journals such as the Journal of Veterinary Medical Education and the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association. Her research areas of interest include clinical communication and educational outcomes, and she is passionate about advancing education for generalists by thinking outside of the box to develop innovative course materials for the hands-on learner.

Veterinarians Oath

Being admitted to the profession of veterinary medicine, I solemnly swear to use my scientific knowledge and skills for the benefit of society through the protection of animal health and welfare, the prevention and relief of animal suffering, the conservation of animal resources, the promotion of public health, and the advancement of medical knowledge.

I will practice my profession conscientiously, with dignity, and in keeping with the principles of veterinary medical ethics.

I accept as a lifelong obligation the continual improvement of my professional knowledge and competence.

Speaker

Amit Chakrabarti

As dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Kansas State University's largest college, Amit Chakrabarti serves as the college's chief academic and administrative officer. He provides leadership and support to all undergraduate and graduate academic degree programs in the college; oversees its continued excellence and growth in research; and works productively with faculty, department heads, deans and administrators on interdisciplinary and collaborative projects. Other duties include maintaining alumni and donor relations, fundraising and more.

Chakrabarti was named dean of the college in April 2017. He had previously served as interim dean since February 2016.

A theoretical physicist with interests in soft matter and statistical physics, Chakrabarti has published more than 150 peer-reviewed papers and mentored eight doctoral students and several postdoctoral fellows. He has worked on diverse soft-matter systems, including liquid mixtures, polymers, liquid crystals, aerosols, colloids, nanoparticles and most recently, self-assembly of proteins. He focuses on how particles in a dispersed phase come together and form aggregates. His individual and collaborative research projects have received extramural funding from agencies such as NASA and the National Science Foundation. He also was named among the top 2% of researchers in the world according to a 2020 study by Stanford University.

A recipient of K-State's 2009 Commerce Bank and W.T. Kemper Foundation Distinguished Graduate Faculty Award, which recognizes quality research and advising of graduate students, Chakrabarti also received the Presidential Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching in 2002 and is a two-time winner of the Stamey Award for Teaching Excellence from the College of Arts and Sciences.

Chakrabarti has a doctorate in physics from the University of Minnesota, and master's and bachelor's degrees in physics from the University of Calcutta, India. He joined K-State in 1990 and was named a full professor in 2000. He served as interim head of the department of physics in 2006-2007.

Student Remarks

Speakers include a Master of Architecture graduate, Master of Interior Architecture & Industrial Design graduate, Master of Landscape Architecture graduate, and Master of Regional & Community Planning Graduate.

Speaker

Edward L. Thompson

A native Kansan and 1967 architecture graduate of Kansas State University, Edward L. Thompson is a registered architect and certified by the National Council of Architectural Registration Boards. After graduating from K-State, Thompson joined architectural engineering firm Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, or SOM, Chicago. During his tenure, Thompson was instrumental in establishing the firm's practice throughout the country and in the international community. He helped establish a Middle East office in Tehran, Iran, and participated in establishing and managing an office in Houston. He later moved to London to manage the Broadgate project, which was the largest commercial project in Europe at that time.

While in London, Thompson was awarded a Certificate of Appreciation from the American Institute of Architects for service in founding and the formation of the first international chapter of the premier professional organization for architects. Moving back to Chicago, he managed international projects in China, South Korea, England and Dubai.

Retiring from SOM in 2007, Thompson still serves under a consulting agreement. A few of his projects include Burj Khalifa in Dubai; Trump International Hotel and Tower in Chicago; Tower Palace III in Seoul, South Korea; Broadgate and the Canary Wharf, both in London; L.G. headquarters in Beijing; and the Campus Crusade for Christ in Lake Heart, Florida.

Thompson and his wife, Susan, have two daughter and five grandchildren. He is an avid photographer.

Awards

Distinguished Service Award

Lynn M. Ewanow

Lynn M. Ewanow is being recognized for her 40 years of teaching, research and service to the college. Joining K-State as an assistant professor in 1979, Ewanow focused much attention of APDesign students' early design education before she was elevated to assistant dean of the college in 1985, which included a two-year appointment as special assistant to the provost from 1988-1990. She was promoted to associate dean in 1999.

Long dedicated to all aspects of design and planning education, Ewanow spearheaded the college's education abroad opportunities, building semesterlong learning opportunities tightly scripted with the diverse curricular requirements of the college's different degree programs. She also introduced a competitive selection process for faculty leading these education abroad experiences. While these successes are specific to APDesign, they laid the groundwork for the creation of K-State in Italy, expanding study opportunities for students from across the university.

Ewanow also is credited with fine-tuning the environmental design studies program, which serves as a base for APDesign programs as it is instrumental in the creation of an interdisciplinary college culture. The EDS program has also served as a launching ground for many young faculty, who were well-mentored by Ewanow.

In addition, Ewanow's dedication to recruiting and her fierce advocacy for the student experience serve as models for the entire university. The college thanks her for sharing her passion for design education, the student experience and service to APDesign.

Ewanow received a bachelor's in art and a bachelor's in psychology from Keuka College in 1975 and completed a Master of Landscape from SUNY College of Environmental Science and Forestry in 1979.

Susan Lannou

Susan Lannou, who earned bachelor's degrees in human ecology and public relations from K-State in 2002, began her long career with APDesign in May 2002 as coordinator in the college's Student Services. She was promoted to director of student recruitment in June 2006 and served until 2019.

During this time, Lannou recruited more than 3,000 students and played an integral role in elevating the college's national reputation. She also developed and implemented the APDesign Student Ambassador program, the student-to-student outreach and recruitment arm for APDesign.

Lannou and her husband, Kenny Lannou, have two children: Easton and Lauren.

Speaker

John Buckwalter

the lives of individuals, families and communities.

Buckwalter is committed to promoting a culture of excellence within the college and creating an environment where students can access transformational educational experiences.

The college is home to seven departments: applied human sciences; food, nutrition, dietetics and health; hospitality management; interior design and fashion studies; kinesiology; personal financial planning; and the K-State Center on Aging. Significant new degree programs at both the undergraduate and graduate levels have been added under Buckwalter's leadership, including the physician assistant program, a satellite nursing

Since becoming dean of the College of Health and Human Sciences in 2013, John Buckwalter has led the college to growth in many ways while continuing the college's long-held vision of focusing first on people. The college's programs all strive to provide students with hands-on experience and the skills needed to make an impact in program with Wichita State University and three bachelor's programs in public health, integrative physiology and sports nutrition.

Before joining K-State in 2013, Buckwalter spent six years at the University of Texas, Arlington as chair of the kinesiology department and then as the associate dean for research and graduate studies in the College of Education and Health Professions. He also spent 12 years at the Medical College of Wisconsin as a faculty member in the department of anesthesiology.

Buckwalter earned a bachelor's in Spanish at Centenary College in Shreveport, Louisiana, and a master's and a doctorate in kinesiology from the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

Buckwalter's many accomplishments include serving as chair of the Association of Public and Land-Grant Universities' Board on Human Sciences and being named a fellow of the American Physiological Society and the American College of Sports Medicine.

In 2018, Buckwalter became the holder of only the second-named deanship at K-State when he was named the Betty L. Tointon dean of the College of Health and Human Sciences.
