Queer Studies Course Descriptions Fall 2019

GWSS 325 Queer Study/Concept/History/Politics

Section A: M/W/F1 2:30—H. Weaver

What does it mean to claim queerness? What IS queer? Is it an identity? A history? A category? A way of being? A sensibility? We explore these questions and more dimensions of queerness in this class, where we examine histories, politics, debates, and key interventions in the field of queer studies. Through this work, we survey what queer studies means today, paying particular attention to critiques and interventions that critically interrogate the relationships among queer & trans concepts and race, ability, ethnicity, and colonization.

GWSS 405 Top/Resistance and Movements for Social Change

Section A: TuTh 1:05--R. Levitt

Examines Women's Resistance and movements against violence and discrimination in the context of colonialism, globalization, war, militarism, and occupation.
