Fall 2020 – 700-level SPANISH Courses

SPAN 735 – Mapping Madrid in the Silver Age (20th-21st c. Spain)
MW, 2:30-3:45pm / Bender [rmbender@ksu.edu]
This course focuses on the representation of Madrid in the literary and cultural production of early 20th-century Spain (media, literature, art, film). We will explore how urban spaces paradoxically create opportunities for free-expression and the challenging of social, political, gendered, or religious norms, while also reinforcing or promoting dominant narratives and identities in both individual and collective contexts. Semester readings and final projects will combine analysis of geography (maps), history, literature, and visual arts in an interactive, collaborative format.
Preq: Span 565, 567 or permission

SPAN 768 – Hispanic Cinema, MW 1:05-2:20pm , Garavito [lugarav@ksu.edu]
This course focuses on cultural encounters that have shaped Latin America over the last three decades. We will view and analyze films in order to explore how cinema can engage with issues of otherness and representation, particularly in connection with ethnicity, race, gender, social hierarchy, migration, and politics. A key focus of the course will be to examine to what extent film can be an agent of social transformation within specific contexts in Latin America.
Preq: Span 560, 566 or 568

SPAN 773 – Spanish America Today, TuTh 1:05-2:20pm / DePaoli [mmtzotz@ksu.edu]
This course traces the major cultural scenes and consequential political and intellectual moments in Spanish America, from the late 20th century to the present. We will discuss political and social issues such as migration, climate change, indigenous movements, gender issues, and the impact of multinational corporations through Spanish American cultural productions: narrative, manifesto, movies, documentaries, photography, music, and more. Readings, individual presentations, group discussions, and a term paper.
Preq: Span 560, 566, 568, or instructor permission

SPAN 774 – Translation & Interpretation in the Community,
MWF 1:30-2:20pm / Kanost [lakanost@ksu.edu]
Translating and Interpreting in the Community. Introduction to vocabulary, research skills, professional practices, and ethics for serving as a community translator or interpreter (Spanish <> English). You will build basic interpreting skills through role-plays, exercises, and community service-learning experiences. You will also gain experience translating a variety of common documents such as birth certificates, letters, and forms.
Prerequisite: Span 575, 771, senior status, or instructor permission

SPAN 776 – History of the Spanish Language
Tu/Th, 3:55-5:10 / Valentin-Rivera [lvalentin@ksu.edu]
En este curso, los estudiantes principalmente adquirirán un conocimiento robusto respecto a la evolución del español – desde el latín hasta nuestros días. Este conocimiento, a su vez, servirá de base para que los aprendices se familiaricen con algunas de las variaciones modernas reflejadas en el español ibérico e hispanoamericano.
Prerequisite: Span 575, 580, or instructor permission
