SPAN567 (15480) Cultures of the Spanish-speaking World: Transatlantic
TU 11:30 a.m. - 12:45 p.m.

This course explores the art of Spain and Mexico during different historical moments (17th-21st centuries). We will examine “visual culture” in mediums ranging from painting to illustrations, sculpture, architecture, and pop culture. Students will design a creative art gallery and read a variety of academic, historic, and literary texts to better understand the historical and cultural legacies of Spanish and Mexican art in a Transatlantic context.
