SPAN 575- 12561: Introduction to Spanish Translation

MoWeFr 12:30pm-1:20pm with Dr. Angelique Courbou

People who are bilingual are often asked to translate or interpret in their jobs or communities. This course is designed to begin developing those skills and instill an awareness of the ethical responsibilities of translators and interpreters. Focusing on the linguistic and cultural differences specific to Spanish <> English translation, you will gain practice translating texts in a variety of genres. Special attention is paid to the role of the sociocultural context in the reception of both the original text and translation.
