

To keep a slender figure
No one can deny...

Business Ethics

PHILO 390

This course gives students the tools to understand the moral problems for which businesses are responsible, as well as strategies for answering the moral questions faced by people who work in businesses.

Topics covered include: the proper role of businesses in society, corporate control over the lives of workers, wage exploitation, pyramid schemes, affirmative action, predatory lending, addictive products, and the point of working.

Dr. Amelia Hicks · Location: TBD · Time: TBD · Fall 2020