

Worlds, Things, and Properties

PHILO 345

1. What are the most general features of the world?
2. What are time and space?
3. How are mind and body related?
4. Are there worlds other than this one?
5. Why is there anything at all?

If these strike you as interesting questions, congratulations: you're interested in metaphysics. If they strike you as silly questions that don't have an answer, congratulations: you're interested in metametaphysics. Either way: take Philo 345.
