

Philosophy and Race

PHILO 380

This course has three main parts. Part I examines the concept of race: what is race, is it real or constructed by society? Part II, focuses on racism: is racism a matter of being prejudiced or about how society is structured? Part III, examines topical issues, including racial profiling; reparations for slavery; implicit bias and stereotyping; and race and cultural appropriation.