

Spring 2027 | POLSC 667

American Political Thought

Dr. John Warner

TuTh - 1:05 - 2:20 PM

This course examines the political institutions and culture of the United States. We will study the intellectual foundations of the world's first Constitutional democracy and examine the role that race, religion, and the marketplace play in structuring its distinctive social life.

This course is part of the Society and Environment track and also counts towards the Primary Texts Certificate!