

Work Systems & Occupational Health Psychology Lab

- Designing Safer, Healthier, & Enjoyable Work Environments
- Fostering Safety Climate in Hazardous Industries
- Promoting Mental Health & Wellbeing of Employees
- Addressing Occupational Safety/Health Disparity

If you are interested in any of these areas,
Please join Work Systems & Occupational Health Psychology Lab!
*You can join the lab for course credit (PSYCH 599)!!

Research Interests

- Safety climate & team dynamics
- Workplace safety/health promotion; Accident/injury prevention
- Factors contributing to workers' mental health & wellbeing
- Disparity in workplace safety/health; Vulnerable workers
- Human Factors/Ergonomics & Public Health
- Quantitative research methods & data visualization
- Other topics of Industrial/Organizational Psychology and Organizational Behavior

Representative Lab Project

- Pilot Study for the Assessment of Temporary Workers' Risk Perception Styles; University Small Research Grant (USRG) #12635; sponsored by Kansas State University, Manhattan, KS, USA

Experiences in the lab can help your career search

- Application for graduate program in Industrial/Organizational psychology or business school
- Application for graduate programs in clinical psychology, health psychology, or medical school
- Application for management consulting firms
- Application for government or international organizations (e.g., NIOSH, OSHA, ILO)

Encouraged Qualification

- Psychology OR related majors
- PSYCH 564 (Psychology of Organization) OR PSYCH 565 (Occupational Health Psychology)

Contact Info

- Director: Dr. Jin Lee (jinlee@ksu.edu; BH 467)