

DASH (Design, Arts, Social Sciences and Humanities) Award

The Kansas State University, Office of Research Development announces a new funding opportunity for faculty researchers working in the fields of design, arts, social sciences, and humanities. This is an annual opportunity for one-time, one-year $10,000 awards to support research, scholarly work, or creative activities.

Applications follow the same eligibility guidelines as and must include all items requested in the call for University Small Research Grants, but unlike that lower funded internal program, your DASH budget can include up to one summer month of faculty salary (if multiple faculty members are involved, the total salary request cannot exceed one summer month). DASH proposals are due by 5 p.m. CST on March 1.

Please note that, if you received a USRG award in the fall, you must wait a year to apply to the DASH program. Faculty who have been at K-State for 2 years or less can submit in the spring following a fall USRG award; however, the project must be different from the project (or a different part of a much larger project such as a book) for which you received the USRG award.

Proposals must be submitted as a single PDF file to ord@ksu.edu. Proposals will be peer-reviewed and awardees notified by early May. Award periods will begin on July 1, 2026.
