

GWSS 105 : Introduction to Gender, Women, and Sexuality Studies

Several Sections Online and In-Person for Spring 2026

An interdisciplinary analysis of personal experiences and social and political institutions as they shape and are shaped by the intersections of gender, race, class, sex, sexuality, ethnicity, nation, citizenship, and ability on local, national, and global levels. Topics include the roles of biology and social construction in shaping gender and sexuality; sources of structural inequities; and feminist, queer, trans, anti-racist, and anti-colonial activisms.

All GWSS 105 courses fulfill K-State 8 Ethical Reasoning and Responsibility and Human Diversity within the US