Golf at Reynolds Lake Oconee

Few communities or resorts can boast the caliber of golf found at Reynolds Lake Oconee. Our courses are renowned for their excellent design and natural beauty.

Designed and maintained for play year-round, many of the pleasures of these courses have little to do with swings and scores and much to do with the magnificence of the setting. An afternoon on these courses is an exercise in relaxation that never fails to renew the spirit.

The Preserve

The Preserve course, which was the first course built at Reynolds Lake Oconee, was designed by Bob Cupp with U.S. Open Champions, Fuzzy Zoeller and Hubert Green. It set a very high standard of excellence for our succeeding courses to meet. In fact, soon after the course was opened, it was rated the “Best New Resort Course” by Golf Digest and among the “Top Ten New Resort Courses in the World” by Golf Magazine.

A delight to golf purists, this course is characterized by a natural, rolling layout that possesses innumerable subtleties. The Preserve course has received a Four and a Half Star rating by Golf Digest subscribers in the “Places to Play” survey.

Great Waters

With nine holes along Lake Oconee, Great Waters, a Jack Nicklaus Signature Course, is considered nothing less than a triumph and a “must play” among golfers. The vistas on this course are incredible, making your round at Great Waters one you won’t soon forget.

Former home to the Anderson Consulting World Match Play Championship, this course was rated one of the Ten Best New Courses in the country of Golf Magazine soon after it opened, and several publications have ranked it the #2 course in the state of Georgia. The course also received a Four and a Half Star rating by Golf Digest subscribers in their “Places to Play” survey.

The National

We challenged Tom Fazio, voted the Best Present Day Architect by Golf Digest, to top what we had. The result is The National, a 27-hole masterpiece of emerald hills, rolling fairways and sparkling waters. Ranked among the top 40 real estate courses in the United States by Golf & Travel magazine, the course also received a Four and a Half Star rating by Golf Digest subscriber in their “Places to Play” survey.

The expert design combines elevation changes, natural terrain, mature hardwood and pine trees, natural streams, several ponds and lake views that create a memorable golf experience.

The Oconee

The Oconee at Reynolds Lake Oconee is our fourth course, a Rees Jones design located within a chip shot of The Ritz-Carlton at Reynolds Lake Oconee. The Oconee course combines Jones’ philosophy of strategic design with a perfect setting of natural pine and hardwood forests and dramatic shoreline, striking an excellent balance between challenge and playability. Gary Van Sickle of Travel & Leisure Golf says this course “may actually be the resort’s crown jewel.”

The Oconee course is also home to the Reynolds Kingdom of Golf. The state-of-the-art facilities and excellent professional staff are all you need to help you perfect your swing.

The Landing

The original resort community on Lake Oconee. The Landing is centered on a classic Bob Cupp golf course that earned numerous awards when it opened in 1986. The course takes advantage of The Landing’s 10 miles of lakefront, and also offers convenient practice facilities. A part of Reynolds Lake Oconee since 2005, The Landing is adjacent to Reynolds Lake Oconee.

The Creek Club

Reynolds Lake Oconee’s first-ever private golf course, The Creek Club opened for member play on June 1, 2007. Golf Digest 2003 “Architect of the Year” Jim Engh has created a contemporary thrilling golf masterpiece complete with rolling bunkers, Zoysia grass fairways and striking water features.
